PREAMBLE/ STATEMENT OF INTENT:

The UGC has been stressing on substantive and significant academic and administrative reforms in higher education for the promotion of quality, excellence and employability. It has proposed the need to switch over to Semester system and to adopt the Choice Based Credit System (CBCS), in order to facilitate flexibility in curriculum development and examination reforms. Besides, the UGC has also proposed a Continuous and Comprehensive Evaluation pattern by reducing the weightage on the end-semester examination in order to scale down the stress quotient. The Department of English, Tripura University in its constant endeavour to keep up to the recent trends in the discipline and in its initiative to modify the existing syllabus of the 4-semester M.A English curriculum, has taken care to live up to the expectations of the UGC by proposing a course structure that responds to changing times and changing needs of students. English studies in India and the employment opportunities that may be opened up through a pursuit of a postgraduate degree in the subject have been kept in mind while preparing the Optional Special papers in the 3rd and 4th semesters. Besides, developing research acumen and skills have also been focussed upon so that students at the postgraduate level are introduced to the idea of research to be taken up in the course of their academic career if they so desire.

The M. A programme of the Dept. of English, as proposed here, comprises of 20 papers to be spread across 4 semesters, amounting to 2000 marks in total. The programme and its components have been developed and designed in sync with the CBCS system with a possible list of Open papers/courses in the 3rd and 4th semesters.

Each paper would consist of 4 units, and students shall have to answer any 4 questions from the respective units amounting to 12 marks each (12 x 5 = 60). Besides, short answer type questions in order to test the students' textual and conceptual understanding of an idea/ textual concerns, amounting to 10 marks would be set, the total marks amounting to 70 in each paper. Internal Assessment tests may be organised by respective teachers offering the courses. A 30 mark- Internal Assessment test shall be taken following the principle of the UGC recommended Continuous and Comprehensive Evaluation Pattern. The modalities of the CBCS Evaluation pattern may be prepared by the respective teacher from time to time.

To keep pace with the changing tracks and methods of literary representations, the present programme has included contemporary texts both from India as well as abroad, with a Core Paper that would familiarise students of Literatures in English with texts crafted during and after the new millennium. Besides, writings from the North-East part of India both originally in English as well as in translation have been taken up both in a core paper as well as in an Optional Paper so as to add a regional flavour to the programme and to enable the students to relate to the literary and cultural concerns of their immediate topography.

The structure and content of the UGC NET/SET examinations have been considered thoroughly while framing the present programme so as to prepare prospective researchers and aspiring teachers for a fruitful career in college and university teaching right from the postgraduate classroom. To achieve this objective, the core components of British literature from the Chaucerian era to the new millennium have been given special emphasis. Besides, to inspire research activities and identify prospective research areas, the present programme has opened up a number of Optional Special papers that have been designed to initiate research curiosity and skills in a variety of study areas. Since this department is primarily a literature department dealing with literatures in English, the Core courses have been designed with this priority in mind, also taking into account the UGC Model Curriculum published in 2001 and its recommendations as well as all subsequent UGC directives.
